Death of Maximilian. There is little room to doubt that the so called Emperor of Mexico Las been sentenced to death and executed. It is to be regretted that the Mexican troubles could not be adjusted without this sacrifice. Maximilian was a young, gifted and popular prince in the places he had occupied. before, unwisely permitting himself to be eajoled by Louis Napoleon into the disastrons attempt to estāblish himself upon um imperial throne in North America. His life had been comparatively quiet and exempt from political agitations, and he appears to have preferred domestic happiness at life beautiful home at Miramar with his accomplished princess, to the strifes which attend the acquisition of power.

Having, however, once thrown himself into the mad enterprise in Mexico; he became subject to all the vicinstrates belong lug to a state of war, and to the chances of defeat and whatever penalties his victorious fore thight choose to inflict. Doubtless, his proceedings in that country must take rank with the fillibustering raids which have been initiated among us, and whose authors have suffered panishment without the interference of other governments or of international law; and, although the voice of Christendom has pleaded for his life, no power out-Aide of Mexico had authority to take other mensures than persuasion to prevent his ex-

It would seem that the idea of justice might have been satisfied had Juarez yielded to the united request of Europe and the United States in favor of elemency, and an instance of magnatumity might have been shown which would have redounded to the credit of the Mexican nation. But the sentiment of revenge is strong in such a people, and Maximilian became practically an outlaw in case of defeat by his act in procletin ing a decree of outlawry against Juarez, the thosen President of the Republic, and by the execution of Mexican prisoners taken in War : and these sets lang are scale I his foto In case of falling into the hands of the Liberals. This is, indeed, as a contemporary justly remarks, "a sad ending indeed to the short and troubled reign which commenced with such brilliancy under the auspices of one of the greatest European powers. An unknown grave in Mexican soil is a poor termination of the career which began upon a cloth of gold smill the cheers of the populace, with all the display of magnificence and power belonging to royalty. While reprobating the spirit of the attempt to establish a foreign empire in Mexico, and recognizing its folly, we can but feel pity for the two chief actors who have also been the chief sufferers, one of whom has lost her reason and the other his life." The reprodution of the civilized world for all this will deservedly fall upon Louis Napoleon. It was his own mad scheme, out of which he escaped when he foresaw the disastrous consequences to himself which must follow defeat, and left the dupe of his ambition and chicanery to bear the full force of calamity from which he could not withdraw without sacrificing that diguity destitute of which both his hereditary and his imperial titles would be worthless.

THE IMPERCEMENT BUSINESS, -A dispatch from "Dixon" says with reference to this

"The four Republican members of the Judiciary Committee who voted in favor of impeaching the President—Messrs. Boat-well, Lawrence, Williams and Thomas—are engaged in preparing their report. The evidence of two witnesses has been taken since the re-assembling of the committee, and the re-assembling of the committee, and about a dozen more have been summoned. It is expected that the testimony of these persons will not establish any new points against the Executive. They are called to throw further light upon points already established. These members of the committablished. These members of the committable and combine the invarience we are successful. tee do not consider the inquiry by any means concluded, and while they will be ready during the coming session with their report, they hold that it will be perfectly proper, in case final action on the matter is not had at this session, to continue taking evidence till the matter is definitely disposed of by the House. They think the testimony already in their possession so conclusive that it will not only sustain an imprachanent before the Senate, but also before the civilized world; and in any event, they hold it to be the solemn duty of the House to carry the question to trial before the Senate, and let that holy take the responsibility of giving a decision. They point to the manner in which the President after all his requires of continuous They point to the manner in which the President, after all his promises of acquirescence, is undertaking to multify the military reconstruction act, and say it ought by this time to be apparent to everybedy that he cannot be trusted to carry out any law to which he is opposed, and is therefore no longer fit for the high office he holds. They will present as the grounds of impeachment, first, his general disregard of properly enacted laws, with specifications; and, second, two or three points showing terrogal corruntion. three points showing parsonal corruption,— one of these being in the matter of pardons. These conclusions will be supported by cita-tions and ample reference to the volume of evidence. They will also present a full summary of the law bearing upon the ques-tion of impeachment, holding in this connec-tion, as is understood, that an impeachable offence need not necessarily be an indictable

STRYWOODBY PASHY CL. - The days of Pestivals in aid of benevolent and platamhropic objects are come, and the season of strawberries and ice-cream scens a most fitting time for the gathering of our benevolent societies in those lappy and innocent reunions that afford an evening's pleasant social converse and annisoment, enlivened by music and cheered by refreshments, and, at the same time, produce something to be distributed in decils of Christian charity. Sureby these objects, so useful, and at the same time, so incorrect and physing, must always commend themselves to an appreciative publie and ought to be liberally sustained.

The members of the Ladies' Social Circle connected with the First Baptist Church, a will be seen by advertisement, will hold : festival this afternoon and evening, at the Academy of Musle, the proceeds of which will be used in the missionary appropriation of that church. The Ladies of the church and society have labored with great assiduity to prepare fancy articles in addition to the strawberries and cake and ice-cream and other articles of refreshment which will be offered on the occasion. A Gallery of Art prepared by the Pastor's wife will form a new and attractive feature. A band of musie. being a detachment from Prof. Stack's ad Artiflery Band from Fort Adams, will b in attendance and add to other attractions.

The hall will be opened at H o'clock this morning for the reception of such articles of refreshment or otherwise as the friends of the object may choose to hand in. The Festival will be held during the afternoon and evening of to-day, and we trust that the Lelies who have labored bard and under whose anspices the festival has been "gotten un," will meet with the success which their labors so richly deserve. The price of admission, is only tiffered cents, and every one can afford to contribute thus much, at least, towards so good an object. We wish our friends of the First Baptist Church and Society God-speed in this as well as in every other good worst.

Distribution of Privila-Speech of Napotrox. —A Paris dispatch of last evening

"The distribution of prizes took place at the Exposition to day in the presence of a vast multitude of spectators who filled all the aisles and circles of the great building and overflowed into the garden of the Chann de-Mars. Nayoleon and Engenie with the Prince Imperial and Prince Napoleon with their suites proceeded to the Exposition in eight carriages, each drawn by six horses. They were accompunied by the Sultan of Turkey and suite in six splendid carriages, each drawn by six horses richly captaloned. When the initiatory to remonies were concluded, the Emperor rose from the throne and said: "Peoples and kings have come here to crown the idea of peace and civiliza-tion. France is proud to be great, prosper-ors and free. Yet she is not unnerved by her material joys. The trought can see na-tional filters vibrate for the honor of France. But this rable associatibility should we But this noble susceptibility should not create fear for the world's repose, as we here prove our auxiety for peace."

"This Exposition marks an era of harmony and progress and the triumph of grand moral principles which with justice can alone establish theorem and employed humanity. Great cuthusiasm followed the Emperor's speech, and ories of "View VEmperor View Nepoleon C" continued for some time. When the excitement subsided, the Imperial Commission proceeded to announce the distribution of prizes-at the conclusion of this eremony, the Emperor and his distinguished visitor, the Saltan, accompanied by their suites, returned to the Tuileries.

Czar Alexander left Paris several days sooner than his aunonneed intention, and ramor is puzzled to give the reason. The acknowledged cause was a felegram, from the Empress of such an urgent nature that he could not prolong his stay, however much be might desire so to do. Other reports tell of suspicious persons seen tarking in the forest of Fontainebleau, and hints are thrown out that Beregowski had confederates in his murderous plot who are also anxious to play Brutus to Alexander's Casar. However this may be, the Czar departed, depriving Paris of its greatest from and relieving Napoleon of no small amount of hospitable auxiety.-Taking everything into consideration, it is evident that the popular reception of the Emperor of Russia gained enthusiasm from the indignation which the attempted assassination aroused. The Crar is a bandsome man, and had quite out out King William val Bismarck before that occurrence which raised him to the position of a hero; but then he won sympathy as well as admiration, and totally collipsed his brother sovereign who attracted no Polish bullets. Prince Napoleon, who syrapathizes with Poland, and whose intimacies with the leading men of that nation are well known, was prinlently kept out of sight by his cousin, the Emperor. His fault is not that of concealing his thoughts, and though Louis may blot out the renumbrance of his Polish sympathies by embracing the representative conqueror of Poland, it is not likely that the Prince would be so politic when he had no reason to hold his tongue. The harmony among the royal personages has thus far been unbroken, but it can hardly be a cause for sorrow to the royal keeper of the menagerie, that the Bonshould so quietly remove binaself from the cage of the happy family.

The Surrati trial made but little progress on Saturday, because of Justice Fisher's illno-4. The cross-examination of Weithman was continued without bringing out any new facts of material import or importance. The defence are making strong efforts to overthrow his evidence, and the democratic Sanday paper of tids week comes to the point by denotingual bins as a periodicus from her fate.

Lewis D. Campbell, late Minister to Mexi-co, arrived in Washington Saturday, and will have an interview with the President and Secretary Sound leganding the causes which led to his resignation.
